

Capitalized Title Here

by Author One, Author Two and Author Three

Abstract An abstract of less than 150 words.

Section title in sentence case

Introductory section which may include references in parentheses (R Core Team, 2016), or cite a reference such as R Core Team (2016) in the text.

Another section

This section may contain a figure such as Figure 1.

Figure 1: The logo of R.

Another section

There will likely be several sections, perhaps including code snippets, such as:

```
x <- 1:10
result <- myFunction(x)
```

Summary

This file is only a basic article template. For full details of The R Journal style and information on how to prepare your article for submission, see the Instructions for Authors.

Bibliography

R Core Team. R: A Language and Environment for Statistical Computing. R Foundation for Statistical Computing, Vienna, Austria, 2016. URL <https://www.R-project.org/>. ISBN 3-900051-07-0. [p1]

Author One
Affiliation
Address
Country
(ORCID if desired)
author1@work

Author Two
Affiliation

Address
Country
(ORCID if desired)
author2@work

Author Three
Affiliation
Address
Country
(ORCID if desired)
author3@work